The whole idea behind the show is to try and help young people remain interested in math and science. The United States is losing its competitive edge in these areas while the rest of the world soars ahead and because of this, the knowledge needed to fuel innovation and economic growth, is at risk. Studies show that children in urban communities in particular are losing interest in math and science. It is time to change these statistics. Grand Hank – The Master Scientist is a catalyst to help bring about that change, and spark interest in Science and Education through music entertainment just in time for the upcoming school year.

Doors open at 6:00 PM and show begins at 7:00 PM (Master Scientist hits the Stage at 7:45 PM). The even is free and open to the public. Premium and General seating tickets can be pickup up at The Dell Music Center.
